Tax Credits for Small Businesses

On Monday I attended a press conference with County Executive Kevin Kamenetz. He encouraged small business owners to take advantage of a new federal health care tax credit.

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, signed by President Obama in 2010, provides substantial federal tax credits for businesses with fewer than 25 employees that pay at least half of the premium costs for employee health care.

Every small business and nonprofit is looking at ways to make ends meet. This tax credit can help make it work.

"This federal tax credit relieves financial pressure on local entrepreneurs while helping even more people access the health care they deserve," said Baltimore County Executive Kevin Kamenetz. "We urge every small business owner to run the numbers to see how this tax credit can help your bottom line and improve the health and quality of life for your employees."

Many people think the health care reform law does not go into effect till 2014. This tax credit is one of several key provisions that small businesses can take advantage of right now. Small businesses can receive up to 35 percent federal tax credits for employer sponsored health insurance. Nonprofits and self-employed also may earn the credits. Businesses can learn more about the health care tax credit and eligibility at www.smallbusinessstaxcredits.org
